BULLETIN
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Oct. 26—A general retreat of German forces in Western Holland was reported today by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters which announced that Nazi staff headquarters and administrative units already have been withdrawn to the north of Tilburg and Breda.

By International News Service
The German defense line in Western Holland was rolled back today by British and Canadian offensive blows which forced the Nazis to withdraw in the Tilburg-Breda sector.

The combined assaults by troops of the British Second Army and the Canadian First Army which carried the Allies to within a mile of Tilburg and forward along the route to Breda threatened collapse of the German defenses.

An official spokesman at headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said there were indications that the German withdrawal in the Tilburg-Breda sector probably began Tuesday when a gradual retirement of the enemy was noted.

The British march on Tilburg, southwest of Hertogenbosch, reached Goerle, a mile south of their goal.

Forces headed for Breda advanced east of the Antwerp-Breda road on a fairly wide front.

British Drive Ahead
Closing up to the Tilburg-Hertogenbosch road, some British units reached Bergenlaan. Just south of Oisterwijk they also reached Zorgen, a mile southeast of Tilburg where the canal bridge has been destroyed by the Nazis.

To the southwest the Allied forces struck to within 4,000 yards of Bergen-Op-Soom.

American forces northeast of Epinal, in France, advanced slowly against stiffened German resistance.

The French First Army repulsed a number of German counterattacks northeast of Le Thillot and (Continued on Page Two)

Music will be provided by the Circleville high school band. Free barbecue sandwiches and coffee will be served. One of the prize steers of the Pickaway county Junior Fair was bought for the barbecue.

The meeting is sponsored by the Pickaway county Democrat committees and the Democratic Women's Club.

STATE TO GIVE JOBS TO VETS AFTER SERVICE

COLUMBUS, Oct. 26—The shortage of personnel on the staffs of the state's welfare institutions today provides many opportunities for jobs for returning servicemen.

Dr. Roy B. Woods, personnel director of the State Department of Welfare, said that the workers' shortage was most acute in the Cleveland State Hospital, where 135 vacancies put a double burden on the staff members still on the job. Massillon State Hospital reported 105 empty places. Longview State Hospital at Cincinnati 101, Columbus State Hospital 73, Hawthorn State Hospital at Macedonia 70, Dayton State Hospital 54, Toledo State Hospital 39, and Lima Hospital for the Criminal Insane 38.

"On the wanted list," Dr. Woods declared, "are medical assistants, assistant physicians, dental assistants, stenographers, dietitians, storekeepers, instructors, and spiritual advisers, as well as carpenters, cooks, laundry workers, waitresses and cooks."

DEWEY PULLS NO PUNCHES IN CHICAGO SPEECH

Alleged Misstatements And Broken Promises Of Roosevelt Discussed

PRIVILEGE SALE CITED

Moral Confidence Of Nation Lost By New Deal, Is Claim

ABOARD DEWEY CAMPAIGN TRAIN ENROUTE TO ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 26—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey returned to the East today, for the climactic phase of his campaign after accusing President Roosevelt of "sponsoring an idea to sell special privileges and a voice in the formulation of administration policies for one thousand dollars on the barrelhead."

The Republican presidential nominee, by the stinging tone of his Chicago speech last night, indicated he has unmasked his heaviest guns for the closing days of the campaign.

From now until November 7, Gov. Dewey will confine his speaking activities to New York and New England, with talks presently scheduled in Syracuse, Buffalo, Boston and New York City. He also is expected to make daytime speeches in Schenectady, Utica, and Rochester in up-state New York, and in New Hampshire and Connecticut.

His next speech, Saturday noon at Syracuse, will be the farm talk he planned for Minneapolis, where he decided instead to answer President Roosevelt's recent foreign policy speech.

25,000 Hear Talk
Twenty-five thousand persons jammed into the huge Chicago stadium heard the Republican nominee repeatedly challenge President Roosevelt's "veracity" and heard him read a letter which, he asserted, revealed a Democratic plot to sell "special privilege" to 1,000 persons "for $1,000 laid on the line to finance the fourth term drive."

Gov. Dewey pulled no punches in his speech at Chicago, where he asserted that:

"When the White House speaks, the first question the people ask is not whether the news is good or bad, but 'is it true?'"

"Privilege Sale"
The GOP candidate offered as proof of his charge that special privilege was offered for "sale" a letter dated October 16, 1944, written on the letterhead of the National Democratic Campaign Headquarters, Little Rock, Ark., and signed by H. L. McAllister and Sam J. Watkins, state finance directors. He read the following quotations from the letter:

"This is an invitation to you to join the One Thousand Club—"

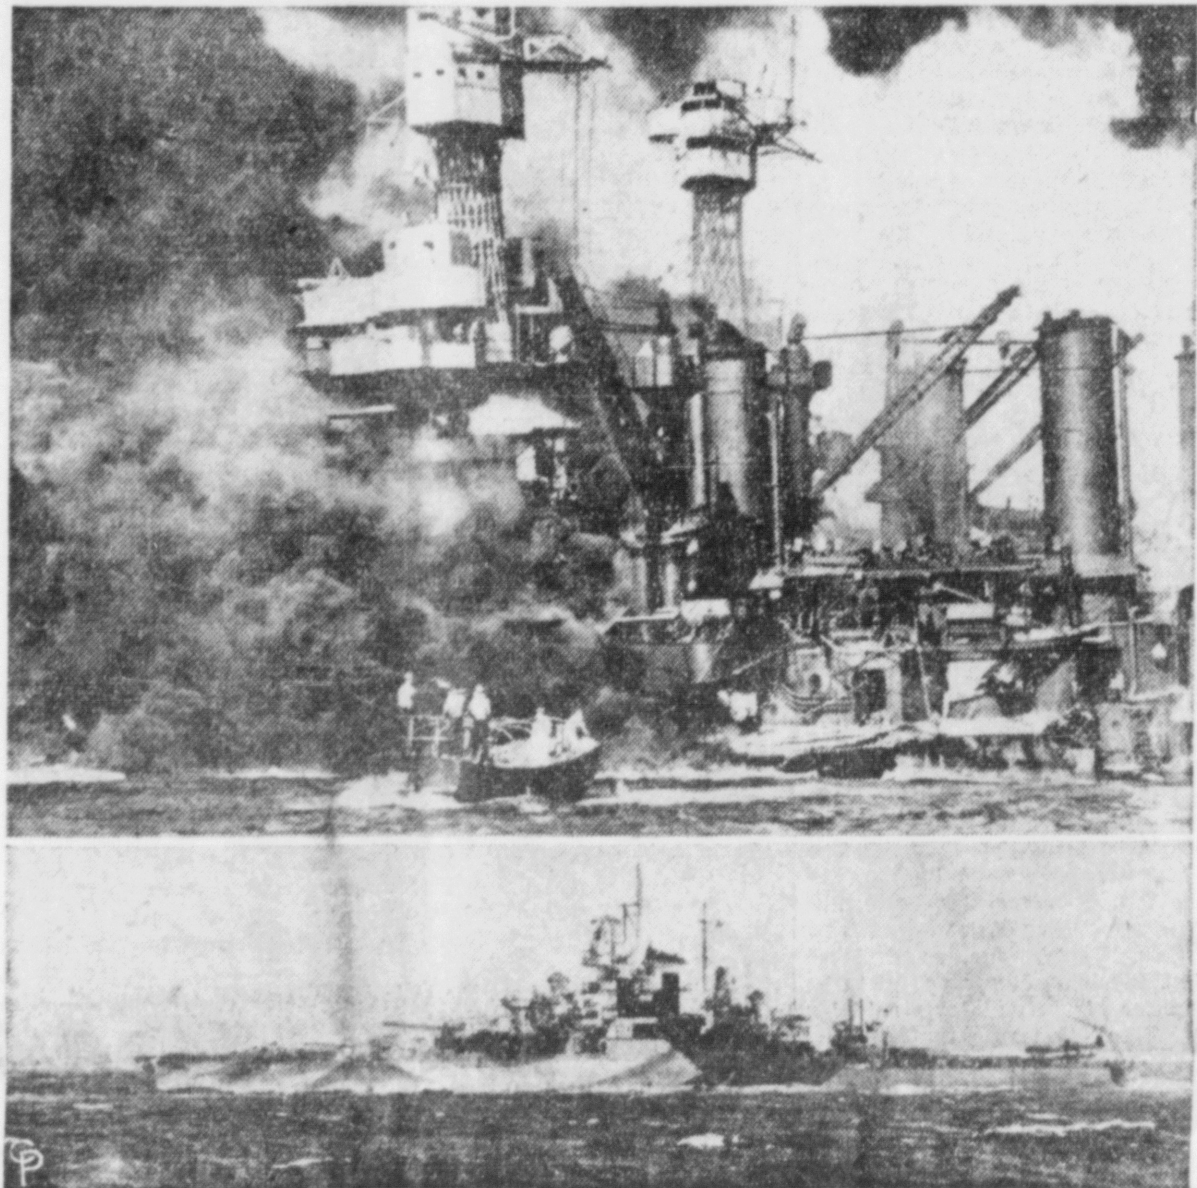

"The idea of such a club originated at a recent conference at the White House between the President, Robert E. Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Edwin F. Pauley, treasurer of the committee. At this meeting the President commented: 'I think it would be a good idea to have a list of 1,000 persons banded together from all over the United States to act as a liaison to see that facts relating to the public interest are presented factually.'"

DEATH TOLL NOW 124

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26—The death toll in the East Ohio Gas Company disaster stood at 124 today as witnesses to the fire and explosion were questioned by authorities. Residents of the devastated area on Cleveland's East Side appeared before the city planning commission to demand that the gas plant be removed entirely from the district.

ITALY GAINS RECOGNITION

Diplomatic Relations To Be Resumed By Most Of Allied World

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—The Italian government of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi, facing a desperate winter in which all Italy will suffer, was given new hope today by the action of the greater part of the Allied world in extending formal diplomatic recognition.

The state department announced that, after consultation with the other American republics, "it has been agreed that diplomatic relations with the (Italian) government should be resumed."

This carried with it the nomination of an American ambassador to Italy, Alexander C. Kirk, who has been serving in Rome as United States representative on the advisory council for Italy.

It was reported that the Italian government would send Count Carlo Sforza, member of the cabinet and long-time resident of the United States, as the new ambassador to this country.

Recognition was also extended (Continued on Page Two)

ARMY LOSSES TO OCT. 14 REACH 403,074 TOTAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—Secretary of War Stimson announced today that he has approved a policy of returning to, or keeping in the United States, the only surviving sons in families where two or more sons have already been lost in combat, except where the survivor is assigned to non-hazardous duty overseas.

At the same time, Stimson reported to his weekly news conference that American army casualties through Oct. 14 totalled 403,074.

Of the total, 78,522 were killed, 220,529 wounded, 51,009 missing and 53,014 prisoners of war.

THIEF LOSES $20,000; BOOKIES TURN IT BACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—Those who say bookies are totally devoid of liberality stood refuted today by two anonymous members of the race track fraternity.

When Walter E. Fackner, 33, pleaded guilty in New York City general sessions court of stealing $31,847 from the insurance company which employed him, and losing $20,000 of it on the ponies, it was revealed that his bookmakers came to his rescue by kicking back the 20 grand to help him make restitution for the theft.

Of course, Fackner had to put pressure on the bookies, who by paying him back escaped arrest—for bookmaking is illegal in New York.

WELL DONE SAYS ADM. NIMITZ IN FLEET MESSAGE

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 26—"Well done!"

This was the traditional Navy accolade bestowed on officers and men of the United States Pacific Fleet today by their commander-in-chief, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, following issuance of a communique reporting the smashing of the Japanese imperial fleet in Philippine waters.

In a congratulatory message to the officers and men of the Pacific fleet who had a hand in the destruction of Jap naval forces in recent sea battles, Admiral Nimitz said:

"The commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet desires to express to all the officers and men of the fleet, his pride and gratitude for the courageous and aggressive manner in which they have done their utmost to destroy the enemy in recent fighting in the Pacific."

"To those who have fought in the air, on the surface and in our submarines, 'well done!'"

DEMOCRATS SEE CONGRESS GAINS

Opinion Survey Indicates New Deal Chance Of Adding Five Seats

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 26—Democrats apparently stand a good chance of adding at least five congressional seats to the three they now hold in Ohio's 23-man delegation to Washington, a survey of opinion in both parties indicated today.

Eight of the 22 districts were conceded to remain Republican by a Democratic spokesman, while the Republicans admitted that the three Democratic congressmen would be re-elected. George H. Bender, the Cleveland Republican who is the present congressman at-large, also appeared to be a certain winner, which leaves bitter battles raging in 11 districts.

While admitting nothing "for the record," a Republican spokesman stated that the Democrats were certain to hold the 20th and 21st (Cleveland) district and "probably" would retain the 19th (Youngstown) district.

Durbin Air Views

Francis W. Durbin, of Lima, to whom the Democrats referred congressional queries, meanwhile conceded to the Republicans the first, second, seventh, tenth, 12th, 13th, 15th and 22nd districts.

LAST SURVIVING CHILD OF QUEEN VICTORIA DIES

LONDON, Oct. 26—Princess Beatrice, 87, last surviving child of Queen Victoria, died today.

The princess, in failing health for some time and gravely ill for the last week, died in her sleep.

Only yesterday her daughter, former Queen Ena of Spain, flew from Switzerland aboard a special British plane to go to her mother's home in Sussex.

Still Big Job Ahead In Pacific

FDR Salutes Men Of Navy And Voices Confidence Of Crushing Japs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—President Roosevelt said today that there still remains a monumental chapter of naval history to be written in the Pacific, but he has no doubt that it "will be superbly executed."

The President's remarks were contained in a statement issued on the eve of Navy Day as America's Pacific fleet reported still further blows against the once invincible Japanese navy which it has smashed around the Philippines.

Saluting the men of the Navy, Mr. Roosevelt said "their heroic performance has won the admiration and gratitude of all men who fight for freedom," and added that "never before has sea power played so significant a role in the determination of America's destiny and the course of world history."

"In the greatest and most difficult naval war ever fought," the President continued, "our Navy has emerged from its ordeal by fire as a massive striking force of enormous power and precision. The men of the Navy, Coast Guard and Marines have proven themselves the enemy's superior in every branch of warfare."

"There still remains a monumental chapter of naval history to be written in the Pacific. That it will be superbly executed I have no doubt. For our part, it is our duty here at home to continue to give the Navy our unswerving support until the battle is won."

"The American people will never forget the Navy's courage and sacrifice."

KELLY CLAIMS PEACE DEPENDS ON FDR VICTORY

CHICAGO, Oct. 26—Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago was added to the list of persons who predict an early end of the war, but the mayor inserted a proviso in his forecast.

The war in Europe will end within a few days after the election, he told a Democratic rally, but only if President Roosevelt is re-elected.

"Our enemies," he added, "are only stalling until after election day, but if Gov. Dewey is elected, the war will be extended and the only kind of peace that will be obtained will be a peace that is satisfactory to Germany and Japan."

TYPICAL NAZI INDISCRETION BRINGS ARREST

PARIS, Oct. 26—Because of "typical bull-headed Nazi indiscretion," Marshal Hermann Goering's nephew, Karl Munch, today is under Allied arrest.

Munch, who had been stationed in Paris on official Nazi business during German occupation of France, remained hidden in the city after the enemy had been driven out, only to be apprehended while seeking a girl companion.

"Typical bull-headed Nazi indiscretion" exhibited by Munch led to his arrest, according to informants.

ARCHBISHOP DIES

LONDON, Oct. 26—Dr. William Temple, archbishop of Canterbury and leading prime of the Church of England, died at the age of 63 today after a brief illness. Dr. Temple was noted as one of the most vigorous and progressive leaders of the Anglican church. A heart attack was the cause of death.

NIPS LOSE HALF FORCE INTENDED FOR LAST STAND

Three Battleships, Three Carriers, Seven Cruisers Out Of War

NAVAL PINCERS FAILS

Enemy Now Left With Only Land Planes, Few Ships For Home Defense

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 26—At least 19 first line warships of the Japanese imperial fleet—battleships, cruisers and aircraft carriers—and a number of destroyers were sunk or severely damaged in the historic naval battle of the Philippines.

(Frank Robertson, International News Service correspondent, in a dispatch filed today from Vice Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid's flagship of the Seventh Fleet, declared that remnants of the two Jap forces completely routed off Leyte island are being pursued and attacked by American carrier planes ranging over inland Philippine waters.)

A Reuters tabulation in London gave at least 26 Japanese ships of all categories sunk or damaged, with an additional "several destroyers" hit both in the engagement south of Formosa and in the Sibuyan sea battle.

With complete reports still to be received, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz in a communique announced that battleships, cruisers, destroyers, submarines and carrier planes of the Pacific fleet had decisively repulsed the Mikado's naval forces in their attempted naval pincers drive on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Philippine invasion front on Leyte island.

Heavy Losses

Including losses reported by Gen. MacArthur, the Japanese imperial fleet has lost, probably lost or had damaged beyond use: Nine battleships, three carriers, seven cruisers and as yet an undetermined number of destroyers.

This undoubtedly represents more than half of Japanese total fighting tonnage and certainly more than half of its battle force which the enemy had hoped to keep in reserve for Japan's last ditch stand.

In his triumphant communique Admiral Nimitz listed the following first line enemy warships, many of them capital ships, as blasted:

Definitely sunk: four cruisers and two carriers. (Gen. MacArthur previously reported a 29,330-ton battleship of the Yamashiro class as definitely sunk.)

Believed sunk one carrier.

Probably sunk: two battleships. Damaged: six battleships and three cruisers.

In addition one Jap destroyer was left dead in the water and a number of other destroyers were severely damaged.

Toll May Grow

(Washington observers reported that a final official tabulation may show that as many as 46 to 50 Japanese warships were blasted in the three separate naval battles in Philippine waters during three days of furious action, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.)

(Japanese imperial headquarters officially admitted today in a communique broadcast by Tokyo radio that one Nipponese battleship had been sunk. Previously the Jap high command conceded the loss of two cruisers and one destroyer.)

A number of the enemy battleships and cruisers were so severely damaged that when they finally broke off action they limped from the scene at low speed, trailing oil and therefore undoubtedly damaged to the point where they will be unfit for action for a long time if they aren't caught by pursuing warships of Admiral William F. NIPS LOSE HALF FORCE INTENDED FOR LAST STAND

Three Battleships, Three Carriers, Seven Cruisers Out Of War

Halsey's mighty Third Fleet or Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher's swift carrier forces and irrevocably sent to the bottom.

Victory Way Cleared

The great naval victory could only be interpreted to mean a swifter liberation of all the Philippines from the oppressive and brutal Jap occupation and a faster pace to the China coast.

It certainly means that Japan is now left drastically weakened beyond the point where the Nipponese fleet is sufficient to protect the inner supply lines between the Jap mainland and the stolen enemy island empire to the south.

The powerful enemy naval forces were first sighted Monday by carrier reconnaissance planes of Halsey's Third Fleet.

One force moved eastward through the Sibuyan sea, a second through the Sulu sea to the southwest, and a third enemy force was located southeast of Formosa approaching the Philippines from Japanese home waters.

Hundreds of Mitscher's dive and torpedo bombers repeatedly attacked the two forces moving through the Sibuyan and Sulu seas.

On the following day, Tuesday, and Tuesday night "a concentration of aircraft, surface ships and submarines of the Pacific fleet" followed up the attack.

Big Nip Losses

Despite the support of many land-based enemy planes from Luzon, our warships, planes and submarines inflicted the following damage on the enemy with no damage to American warships involved in this action:

One large carrier which exploded and sank; one large carrier severely damaged by bombs and torpedoes, believed to have sunk; one light carrier definitely sunk; two battleships probably sunk; two light cruisers definitely sunk; two battleships, three cruisers and a number of destroyers damaged so severely that they terminated action and fled to the north.

On the same day, Tuesday, a Third Fleet carrier task group assisted units of Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid's Seventh Fleet in striking a force of enemy battleships, cruisers and destroyers which slipped through San Bernardino strait, north of Leyte, to attack a force of Seventh Fleet baby flattops off Leyte Gulf.

Only fragmentary reports have been received thus far by Admiral Nimitz on this action. On the basis of the incomplete reports, he announced that the following damage was inflicted on this enemy force.

Cruiser Goes Down

One heavy cruiser which was seen to sink; four battleships heavily damaged by bombs which broke off action and limped away at low speed trailing oil; one destroyer left dead in the water.

"This enemy force withdrew through San Bernardino strait in a badly-damaged condition" at midnight Tuesday and early yesterday morning, Nimitz declared.

During the night warships of the Pacific fleet caught a straggler Jap cruiser of this task force and sent it to the bottom.

(Admiral Nimitz' communique made no mention of the enemy force which made a southern thrust at Kinkaid's Seventh Fleet in Leyte Gulf, approaching through Surigao strait, south of Leyte.

(In reporting this action, Gen. MacArthur said a 29,330-ton battleship of the Yamashiro class was sunk. He also announced that the Japs lost several cruisers and destroyers "early in the action.")

Admiral Nimitz previously announced the loss of the light carrier U. S. S. Princeton whose magazines exploded after she was attacked Monday by a strong force of Jap land-based planes from Luzon during the opening phases of the running battles.

Casualties among the Princeton's personnel were light. Her captain and 133 other officers and 1,227 enlisted men were saved.

In addition to the loss of the Princeton, General MacArthur announced that the Seventh Fleet sustained the following losses:

One baby flat-top sunk, several other escort carriers and destroyers damaged, and several PT boats sunk or damaged.

The epochal victories scored by the United States Pacific fleet gives our naval forces unquestionable control of all waters in the Pacific except those between Japan and China.

The enemy is now left only with land-based air forces and sorry remnants of the once vaunted imperial fleet which finally was lured into battle by General MacArthur's liberation invasion of the Philippines.

NEW U. S. S. IOWA STRONGEST OF ALL WARSHIPS

NEW YORK, (Delayed)—No single ship afloat today can stand against the U. S. S. Iowa, American's newest 45,000-ton battleship.

This is the unanimous opinion of correspondents who have just returned from a shake-down cruise aboard the Iowa and is the belief shared by her crew.

The captain, J. H. MacCray, and Lieut. Commander T. J. Casey, the Iowa's executive officer, admitted she has greater speed, more fire power, and longer range than any ship built before this war.

"We had to go to 45,000 tons to attain the speed plus armor plus fire power that we wanted," said the executive officer.

Speed of the battleship is a naval secret, over 30 knots, but it may be revealed that escorting destroyers were strained to keep up with her during her first trials.

Speed of the battleship is a naval secret, over 30 knots, but it may be revealed that escorting destroyers were strained to keep up with her during her first trials.

Lieut. Commander F. R. Brumby, Norfolk, Va., the gunnery officer, said the Iowa can shoot farther than any ship in the American navy. One hundred and fifty men are needed to man each of the three 16-inch gun turrets.

There are 20 five inch guns, and for anti-aircraft purposes, the battleship is equipped with 20-millimetre Oerlikon guns.

The concussion of the 16-inch guns is terrific, but some idea of the Iowa's immense size can be gained from a comment of the chief engineer who said he was working in the hold during a broadside, and the firing sounded like a faint pop. Sailors lying flat on the main deck were thrown 15 feet by the same broadside.

by the British government. The Soviet government had recognized the Italian regime of Marshal Pietro Badoglio last March, and this recognition has continued in effect for the present government.

The action by the American nations meant that the five-month-old Bonomi regime was welcomed fully into the Allied family of nations. Italy had completed the full cycle from friend to foe to friend again.

A step forward recognition was taken a month ago when President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, after conversations in the park, declared that "an increasing measure of control will be gradually handed over to the Italian administration," adding that the Italian government would be invited to appoint direct representatives to Washington and London.

The latest action was a fulfillment of that promise. Carried through without waiting for popular elections to be held in Italy, it was a subject of some comment in Washington that the state department's action was an inter-American action rather than an Anglo-American one. Observers agreed that the emphasis on joint recognition by the American republics was in deference to the demand from Latin America that a consultative meeting of foreign ministers should be held.

Diplomats urging such a meeting have pointed out that the Rio De Janeiro resolution under which the American republics broke relations with the Axis called for another consultative meeting before such a relation should be restored. In order to avoid a formal consultative conference, the state department took what it described as "consultation" with the other American republics on the question of recognizing Italy, but did so by cables, thus avoiding the necessity of a formal conference.

State department officials said today that the formal action of recognition would give new strength to the Bonomi government, which is a united front coalition, and prepare it for the arduous task of reconstruction which lies ahead.

DEWEY PULLS NO PUNCHES IN CHICAGO SPEECH

Alleged Misstatements And Broken Promises Of Roosevelt Discussed

usually to the President and members of congress.

"Members of this organization undoubtedly will be granted special privilege and prestige by party leaders. These members will be called into conference from time to time to discuss matters of national importance and to assist in the formulation of administration policies.

"To be eligible for membership in the One Thousand Club will require a contribution of $1,000 to the National Democratic Campaign Club."

"Ultimate In Politics"

Gov. Dewey asserted that the "crude, unblinking" words he read were "the ultimate expression of New Deal politics."

"For a thousand dollars," he said, "I laid on the line to finance the fourth term drive, this administration boldly offers for sale 'special privilege' including the special privilege of assisting in the formulation of administration policies for one thousand dollars on the barrelhead."

"And the sponsor of this idea is frankly stated in that letter to be the President himself. The man who holds the highest office with in the gift of the American people at a conference in the White House sponsors an idea to sell 'special privilege' and a voice in the formulation of administration policies for one thousand dollars on the barrelhead."

The Republican nominee, employing stronger words than in any of his previous speeches, recited alleged misstatements and broken promises by President Roosevelt. AD 30—DEWEY PULLS

He said the New Deal cast aside the platform it adopted in Chicago 12 years ago; that the President's "veracity" had to be corrected by the chief justice of the United States during the "court packing" dispute, and that the President claimed credit for the federal deposit insurance corporation which was sponsored by Republican Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Cites Record

Gov. Dewey further declared that President Roosevelt, when he ran for his second term said his great ambition was to turn over his duties to a successor, and that when he ran for a third term he stated it would be his last.

"And now he's running for a fourth time," said Mr. Dewey. "Is it any wonder that when the White House speaks, the first question the people ask is not whether the news is good or bad, but 'is it true?'"

The crowd, recalling the words employed by the GOP nominee in his Oklahoma City speech a month ago, cheered when he said:

"He (President Roosevelt) implies that others have adopted his devious methods. Well, once again, he has asked for it."

Gov. Dewey read the following question from what he described as a "fourth term" campaign pamphlet:

"Politics is the science of how to get what, when and why."

"There, in brief," he declared, "is the practical lesson of 12 years under the New Deal. There is the practical reason why we find working together for a fourth term the bosses of the corrupt big city machines, Sidney Hillman's Political Action Committee and Earl Browder and his Communist party."

"But the American people will have another answer. From the American people this whole greedy, power-hungry assortment will get a resounding 'no' next November 7th."

The Republican nominee said men and women on relief and the WPA were "shaken down for contributions to the New Deal" and that for the "sordid purpose of buying votes," people were added to the WPA payrolls just before election and "brutally thrown off after the votes had been safely counted."

Gov. Dewey asked how the United States can give leadership to the world when our own government has "lost the moral confidence of the nation, and when we have an administration which 'lacks even rudimentary honesty.'"

The Chicago visit, which followed speeches in Minneapolis and Milwaukee, obviously gave a "lift" to the Dewey campaign. Members of the governor's staff were impressed by the huge Chicago turnout, with an estimated 500,000 persons lining the streets on his arrival and many being turned away from the stadium last night.

When Gov. Dewey arrives in Albany late today he is expected to announce whether he will call the legislature into special session next week to extend the election day voting hours in New York City, as was done four years ago. The extension has been asked by the Democratic members of the city board of elections.

Mr. Dewey told a Chicago press conference yesterday that he decided to make his farm speech in Syracuse because that city is "the agricultural center of New York state."

He explained that most candidates for governor made their farm speeches there.

best chance to upset Republicans, and which Durbin claimed as "certain" although the Republican spokesman "cautiously listed as 'doubtful,' were the third, ninth, 11th, 14th and 18th.

The Republicans claimed as safely within the GOP column the fourth, fifth and 17th districts, but these claims were disputed by Durbin. Both sides declared the sixth, eighth and 16th districts were already won, but the fact that the incumbents are Republicans seems to give slightly more weight to the GOP assertion.

Lausche In Columbus

Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, today invaded Columbus and Southern Ohio in his quest for votes in the Nov. 7 election as Ohio Republicans intensified their campaign with a round-robin radio broadcast to GOP workers in the state's 8900 precincts.

Lausche, whose campaign was interrupted temporarily last week by the tragic fire and explosion in his home city, was to address a Democratic rally in Columbus tonight before going on to Cincinnati, the home city of his Republican opponent, Mayor James Garfield Stewart.

The unusual GOP radio broadcast was to feature a 10-minute address by Gov. John W. Bricker, the party's vice-presidential nominee who will speak from Enid, Okla. Stewart will be heard from Akron; U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft, seeking re-election, will speak from London, O., and State Chairman Ed D. Schorr will speak from Columbus.

Pickrel on Program

Lausche is scheduled to share the Columbus speaking platform with William G. Pickrel of Dayton, the Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator. Lausche's wife has been filling his speaking engagements since he interrupted his campaign tour to attend to relief for the suffering in the Cleveland explosion area.

Taft, meanwhile, spoke before the Ohio Petroleum Marketers Association convention in Columbus and attacked the Anglo-American petroleum agreement as "the biggest cartel ever seen."

Elsewhere on the political front, Jack Kroll, president of the Ohio CIO council, announced he had been subpoenaed to appear before a special Senate committee investigating campaign expenditures in answer to a complaint filed by Taft about a pamphlet attacking the GOP senator assertedly issued by the CIO council.

Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel advised election boards not to reject soldier ballots because envelopes containing them appeared to have been opened illegally. He said dampness in several war theatres caused envelopes to stick together.

Charles H. Huibel, candidate for supreme court judge, announced he would submit to the attorney general a proposed constitutional amendment to fix the terms of governor and other state officials at four years and "to adjust and standardize" salaries of all county officials in Ohio.

against their Mosselotte bridgehead.

In the Vosges mountains severe losses were inflicted on counter-attacking German forces.

Headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said that although the Germans had been driven out of most of Hertogenbosch there still was fighting in the southwest corner of the city where the Nazis remnants were being routed in house to house fighting.

The town of Bostel, along the Hertogenbosch—Endhoven road, was captured as the Allies pressed forward to the northwest.

The drive along the Brest-Tilburg road gained three miles beyond De Heide, carrying the British to the area of Moergestel, three miles east of Tilburg.

The main activity on the western front bordering the Reich was confined to the Seventh Army sectors where Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's American Seventh Army in France made new progress in the Mortagne river bridgehead, northeast of Mortagne and also toward Les Rouges Eaux.

Averaging a mile a day, headquarters revealed, the Seventh Army advanced to a depth of five miles east of Bruyeres.

Russian troops smashed head-on toward the vital city of Insterburg with the capture of 13 strongpoints in East Prussia while other Soviet forces carved out important gains in northern Norway and near Warsaw in Poland.

Disclosing also that German resistance has been crushed in Northern Transylvania, announcement of the mounting successes in the Red Army's Autumn offensive came in two special orders of the day from Premier Stalin and were confirmed by the Moscow communique.

One of the greatest battles of the war was reported raging east of Insterburg. Hurling in tactical reserves as well as powerful Pan-

SOLDIER ASKS ABOUT BUDDY AND HOME TOWN

Inquiries about a former "buddy" and the "home town" are contained in a letter from Sgt. Jacob B. Davis in France to the editor of The Herald.

He praises the action of Ted Lewis park and predicts "it will be crowded very much after this war is over". He asks that his address be corrected so that he can receive The Herald "because I miss that hometown paper when I get a chance to read it". He enclosed a souvenir two franc note.

Sgt. Davis asks for information concerning the address of Vernon Weiler who entered the Army with him in May, 1941. They were together until May, 1942, when Weiler went to a Georgia camp and Davis to one in Tennessee.

Weiler received a medical discharge from the Army and went to Springfield. He is ill at his home there, relatives said Thursday. The Herald has forwarded Weiler's address to Sgt. Davis.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

As American as Huckleberry Finn

About the best-read books in our town are the works of Mark Twain—who wrote Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn and all those other lovable, undying stories.

And I think it's because he's the most American of all our writers. He understood his fellow men—and loved them as he loved all humanity.

Let tolerance become indifference, never let freedom become license.

From where I sit, that's timely wisdom for a troubled world—whether it applies to international politics, or to a man's right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer occasionally.

For tolerance—respect for the other fellow's rights—is important not just in the big things, but in the little human everyday things, too.

CHARLES SEALL TELLS OF LIFE IN HUN CAMP

Mother Of Soldier Also Gets Letter From Friend Of Son In Italy

Mrs. George Seall, 309 Watt street, has received a letter from her son, Staff Sgt. Charles M. Seall, who is a prisoner of war in Germany, and a letter from a friend of his in Italy.

Sgt. Seall reveals he was wounded before his capture and tells of life in the prison camp. The letter, written July 29, says in part:

"Dear Mother: Here I am again and I am feeling swell. I guess I should have told you that when I hit the ground I broke my leg. I have had it in a cast with an iron on it so I can walk around. By the time you get this letter my leg will be out of the cast. I made myself a coat and a pair of sun shorts. I don't have a darn thing to do all day except sew or read. I and a few of my friends made a miniature golf course and we have a lot of fun playing on it.

Meets Local Men

"I have met three fellows here from Columbus and two right from Circleville. The way my leg is getting better I will be out of the rest home that I am now in by the time you get this letter. So, don't worry. Mother, I am mighty lucky compared to the ones that have lost their lives."

Danielle a Ripalta Cellanare addressed his letter to "Lady Seall, 309 East Watt street, Circleville, Ohio. (America)". He expresses his hopes that Sgt. Seall is quickly returned home.

His typewritten letter reads as follows:

"Kind Lady, We take the liberty of writing you a few words from of consolation to your maternal heart. We understand your apprehensions of the luck your beloved son met, but we unite our hopes to yours for the fortunate return of our good and dear Count, absent from the 29 May.

Tells Of "Count"

"Now we will tell you that Count always thought of his mother, every day he had a sweet expression. He told us that you called him Charles and not Count. Charles told us he wished to be called Count because all his friends and us used that name.

"We always received Count like one of the family when he came to take piano lessons. Our daughter taught him for two months.

"Sometimes he staid with us for dinner and showed himself generous and affectionate.

"The following noble words he wrote in our album. To us they are unforgettable and will always be in our memory:

"To Titina and family—for showing me a swell time while I was in Foggia, Italy, and for the family and sharing with me what they had. And also teaching me music. Count."

"Poor dear Count!"

"We are sure that God will return him to you quick. God Will!"

"But if that is not possible, we shall curse again several times Mussolini and the other hateful persons, responsible for this horrid war.

"Very Kind Lady,

"We prepare ourselves to share with you the great joy so now we share with you great apprehensions.

"Excuse us, but we wish to pay our respects to you, and would be pleased to receive a kind reply".

BIKE LICENSE SALE TOO SLOW, CHIEF DECLARES

Sale of bicycle licenses has been very slow, Chief McCrady said Thursday.

All owners of bicycles are urged by the chief to take them to the police station to obtain new licenses.

He pointed out that purchase of licenses gives the police a record of all bicycles and helps to identify them in case of theft.

OVER-OPTIMISM

THIS nation got off to a bad start because so many Americans seemed to think it was going to be a romp to Berlin and Tokyo. And indeed, after nearly three years of slow preparation and postponement, millions of our people still fail to realize the immense difficulty of the job and the toughness of the Germans and Japanese. Our people are loyal and our fighting men are brave, but it is by far the hardest job this nation has ever tackled.

Visible evidence that it is still tough, in spite of the slowly waning power of our enemies, is the fact that our American army is still on the wrong side of the Rhine. We have co-operated admirably with our Russian Allies in the necessary job of worrying and killing the Germans. But it is taking longer than most of us expected, and Hitler's Germans are tougher than the Kaiser's ever were.

Both of our enemies will naturally fight harder, even while expecting defeat, because they have been warned that their power and prestige will be broken permanently. It is sporting for us to tell them so, but it may not hasten their surrender.

It is wiser to expect a longer war than a shorter one. Then, if our enemies give up sooner, that is so much to the good.

WHY CHANGE NAMES?

BERLIN, N. H., and Berlin, Ore., have rejected suggestions to change their Germanic names to "Distomo," the Greek town wiped out by the Nazis.

After all, why should they change? Children born while Benedict Arnold was fighting bravely for his country, and named after him, need not have changed when he became a traitor. Bearing a name by no means indicates approval of the doings of other bearers of the name. The Berlins were named long after the German city became the Nazi capital; they will continue to live long after the Nazis have been wiped off the map.

WAR DEBTS

IT is interesting to play with a suggestion from the association of American Railroads, regarding national debts and methods of paying them. The railroad men expect an indebtedness of three hundred billion dollars after the war, and propose to pay off that immense debt in a period of 100 years.

The idea is to pay one per cent of the principal annually. This would mean, the first year, $3,000,000,000 on the principal plus $6,000,000,000 of interest, or $9,000,000,000 altogether. It would be an interesting problem to work out the additional interest payable during the remaining 99 years, adding it to the original principal, and arriving at the total cost of carrying and paying that big debt.

In practice, however, there would probably be a reasonable doubt as to whether such a vast debt, in any country, would ever be paid in full. For presumably other wars and new problems would intervene in succeeding decades, so that many readjustments would be made.

WASHINGTON Report

Return of War Veterans
To Jobs Is Simplified

Believe Byrnes May Stay
In Government, After All

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The first step in simplifying the return of jobs to war veterans in the cases of recalcitrant employers has been taken by the Justice Department and Selective Service.

To hurry up the recovery of former jobs by former servicemen, it has been ruled that cases in dispute need not go to Washington first, but may be handled locally.

Hitherto, a cumbersome process was in effect whereby National Selective Service and the United States attorney general had to approve each case before local United States attorneys could sue an employer for refusing to give a veteran his old job back.

THERE IS PLENTY OF EVIDENCE that the German soldier does not believe all the propaganda put out by his Nazi masters, but the Japanese fighting man doesn't conform in this respect. And that is one of the main reasons why American forces in the Pacific are finding the going tougher and tougher as they near Japan.

There is every indication that the Japanese soldier believes the lies broadcast daily by the Tokyo radio. Japan never has admitted her serious fleet losses or the fact that many vital bases are cut off from the homeland. The Japanese troops are told that eventual victory is certain and that they should fight to the end.

Long after all Japanese air power was knocked out in the Mar-

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

COMMITTEE LEARNS OF VIOLATIONS

WASHINGTON—Judging by the type of mollycoddle investigation now being done by certain Senate committees, another Teapot Dome oil scandal could be pulled right under the nose of the Senate and no one would know the difference.

There doesn't seem to be a Tom Walsh or a Hugo Black or a Ferdinand Pecora in the entire Congress.

Most pathetic example of alleged investigation took place before 77-year-old Senator Green's committee for the probing of campaign expenditures. The Rhode Island Senator's docile, do-nothing behavior was excellent corroboration of Dewey's thesis that old men can't run the government.

Senator Green and colleagues let witnesses blandly admit to tacit violations of the Corrupt Practices Act, admit the hiding of campaign contributions, with no action and little moral indignation expressed by the committee.

William J. Goodwin, treasurer of the American Democratic National Committee, admitted a hidden contribution of several thousand dollars from Sears-Roebuck's Gen. Robert E. Wood, America First organizer, also from Wall Street Broker Ed Hutton; also from various corporations, despite the fact that it is against the law for corporations to contribute and for contributions of any kind to be hidden.

A CHEERING SESSION

After the milk-and-water session of the alleged investigating committee was over, those who were supposed to be investigated dropped in for a drink at the Carroll Arms hotel.

"Poor, dumb Bob Murphy," gloated Robert Harriss, former Coughlinite, who is supporting the American Democratic National Committee. He was referring to the Senate Committee's attorney. "I wouldn't mind being investigated by him at any time."

William Goodwin, American Democratic Treasurer, then recited all over again his testimony before the committee and congratulated himself on making the Senators look silly.

"We should make Senator George of Georgia titular head of the Democratic party, after Roosevelt is defeated," advised Ralph Moore, ghost writer to Senator Pappy O'Daniel. "He'll hold the Solid South in line and might even be good presidential timber in 1948."

NOTE—Master-mind behind the American Democratic Committee is ex-Congressman John O'Connor. The Senate Committee had planned to call him, but bowed meekly before a letter from Nebraska's Senator Butler, who wrote Chairman Green that O'Connor and other members of the American Democrats were "very busy men."

EISENHOWER FREE TO CARRY ON

A group of U. S. Congressmen—both Republican and Democrats—who visited France recently were greatly impressed with one particular conversation they had with General Eisenhower.

The General said that if he ever wrote a book—though he has no intention of doing so—he would devote several chapters to the freedom of action which has been permitted him in all matters.

He said he feared that, with the approaching elections, he might be under pressure to do something or say something which would have a favorable effect on

DIET AND HEALTH

The Fruit Season

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

"SEASON of mists and mellow fruitfulness," wrote Keats, in the "Ode To Autumn." The favorite of my youth brings to ripening the favorite table delicacies of my youth—the fruits.

The best things of life, the most pleasure giving, are always the most healthful. The Puritans, if any of those are left, the health faddists who like to concoct sawdust meals and monstrous exercises, and rhythmic conditioning in one or another sphere of living would challenge this but it is a cardinal point of my philosophy. Certainly among the best things of the table are the fruits—apples and peaches, pears, grapes, lemons, oranges. And they are among the most healthful. Talk about accessory food factors—the fruits lead the list of accessory foods. They are the vitamin bearers, the mineral bearers, the bearers of heaven knows how many different kinds of refreshers to health and happy living that have not yet been differentiated by the biological chemists.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Year Round Crops
It used to be that they were exclusively the table delicacy of autumn. So suggests Keats, at any rate. Now we are likely to get them year round. For this we have to thank modern engineering methods of refrigeration, food preservation, transportation and the development of fruit farming in some of our southern states and neighboring countries where there are possibilities of year round crops.

You cannot make a complete meal of fruit. They contain little protein, the flesh building chemical, and almost no fat. But the sugars they contain are sure fire energizers. They are mostly simple sugars which enter the blood quickly after being swallowed and spark like high octane gas.

In vitamins and minerals the fruits lead all foods, however. Nature's own and greatest medicines. Nearly all the fruits contain Vitamin C, technically the anti-scurvy vitamin. One doesn't like to think of it as associated with such a repulsive word as scurvy, however. It is the fresh-ener of the blood, the brightener of the eyes and lips and tongue and the refresher of the skin.

Vitamin A, while not so plentiful, is found in apples, in good quantity in peaches, some in pears, prunes and tangerines.

Vitamin B is also found in apples, canteloupes, berries, grapes, lemons, peaches, pears. There are two varieties of Vitamin B, water soluble and fat soluble, and naturally the water soluble sort predominates in fruits.

Fruits Contain Minerals
Nobody need worry about his body getting enough minerals as long as he eats plenty of fruit. Calcium, phosphorus, iron and sulphur are the essential minerals—the fundamentals, as one might say, and there is hardly any fruit in each class that hasn't some or all of them in easily assimilable form.

Apples are in the list of the dozen foods richest in calcium, phosphorus and iron. Of course they do not stand as high in percentages as the champions in each class, such as milk for calcium, egg yolk for phosphorus and spinach for iron, but then putting them up against a heavyweight in each class is hard going for anybody or anything.

Calcium for bone, teeth and blood coagulation, sulphur for beautification of the skin, phosphorus for nerves and muscles, iron for blood hemoglobin—enjoy their intake by eating fruits. "Stay me with apples," said Solomon, who had a good reputation for wisdom.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
I. A. W.:—Please inform me what a blood test shows?

A.: The blood is examined to determine the number of red cells (anemia or not) and white cells (infection or not). It is also examined for immunity reactions, such as for typhoid fever and syphilis. Also for chemical content—non-protein nitrogen (kidney function), sugar (diabetes), calcium (bone disease), and vitamin content. But this is just an outline of the numerous blood tests.

A. N. W.:—What is the cause of sore, swollen fingers around the fingernails and cracked nails?
Answer: My dermatologist colleague says it is usually psoriasis, or ringworm.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

Terry Hitchcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hitchcock, 347 East Union street, returned home from Norfolk, Va., after completing his four-year enlistment in the U. S. Navy.

Governor Hurley, of Massachusetts, called Mack D. Parrett, secretary of the Circleville Pumpkin Show by telephone to request that a pumpkin be sent to Plymouth, Mass., to represent Ohio in a national observance of Thanksgiving.

One inch of rain, the heaviest recording since July 18, drenched Pickaway county, helping the wheat crop and putting an end to the series of field and forest fires due to the extreme dry weather.

10 YEARS AGO

Tom A. Renick, local attorney, was honored by Kiwanis clubs of Ohio when he was elected lieutenant governor of the fifth district, which included 12 clubs.

The Pickaway county board of education was to sponsor a home talent musical comedy to help finance the school relief treasury, such as the shoe and other funds.

Warden P. E. Thomas, of Ohio penitentiary, was to address the combined meeting of the men's clubs of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches.

SYNOPSIS

When Drue Cable learned her former husband, Craig Brent, was the victim of a so-called accidental bullet, she persuaded her friend and fellow nurse, Sarah Keate, to answer with her the call made by Dr. Claud Chivery from a small New England town. Sarah was unaware of Drue's previous connection with the Brent family which included Craig's father, Conrad; Alexia, Conrad's glamorous young wife who, at one time, had hoped to marry Craig; Nicky Senour, Alexia's twin brother; and Peter Huber, a friend of Craig. Anna Haub, maid at the Brent mansion, told how Craig was found in the garden the previous night, adding, "Beevens, the butler, said it was an accident—Mr. Craig was cleaning a gun." Alexia ordered Drue to leave before Conrad Brent discovered her presence. Drue told Sarah the strange story of her romance with Craig. They married more than a year ago and Conrad Brent disapproved. Craig's work in the diplomatic service summoned him to Washington, and Drue returned to New York. Shortly after, she received a letter from Conrad (which he claimed Craig had asked him to write) stating his son had resigned to enter aviation training, only to discover married men were ineligible. Conrad said Craig wished Drue to divorce him, but promised they could remarry when the training period was over. Drue got the divorce but never received any reply to the letters she wrote Craig. Now, she is determined not to leave until Craig regains consciousness and can talk with her. Dr. Chivery told the state trooper that the bullet he removed from Craig's shoulder was accidentally thrown away; the gun, too, is missing. He warned Sarah not to repeat anything the patient might say in delirium. Later, Craig mumbled something about "yellow gloves." From the window, Sarah saw Drue disappear behind a hedge and emerge soon with something hidden beneath her cape. A few minutes later Drue entered the sick room just as Craig cried out, "But that's murder! Tell Claud. There'll be murder done." Drue attempted to question him but he lapsed into drugged sleep again. Sarah is summoned by Conrad Brent and followed Beevens into the library, as Maud Chivery, the doctor's wife, was leaving. Conrad insists Drue must leave at once. When Sarah tells him his son is already aware of her presence and repeats what Craig said about "murder being done," he sends Beevens for Drue. Sarah is telling the story.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

Then Drue came. Beevens muttered and closed the door behind her so she was silhouetted sharply against its dark wood, white and slim with her chin held high. Conrad Brent put down the glass he still held.

"Why did you come here?" he asked heavily.

"I was sent here as a nurse."

Conrad Brent frowned. "No. I'll tell you why you came. You came because it was my son. You wanted to see him. Well, he does not want to see you."

Drue's face went, if anything, whiter. She said, "I came here to nurse him. He's sick and needs me..."

"Not you," cut in Conrad Brent. "Anybody but you. I tell you he doesn't want you."

"That was a boyish infatuation!" frowned Conrad Brent, with a kind of controlled violence. "He was soon cured. Your marriage to my son is ended completely. I only wanted to make sure you understood that before permitting you to stay on in this house. I see you prefer not to, so you can leave at once..." He turned to the bell and had his hand outstretched when he advised, "She'd better stay."

His head jerked toward me, startled. I said, "All this is beside the point. The only thing that matters just now is whether your son is going to live or die."

There was a little silence while he digested that. Then he turned to Drue again. "You might be needed tonight. But, understand, I'll have no attempts to talk to my son. If you stay at all, you stay on my terms."

After a moment, Drue said, whispering, "I'll stay. I've got to stay..."

"Very well," grumbled Conrad Brent. "You take the noon train tomorrow. That's all."

She waited an instant or two, looking at him; then she went to the door. But with her hand on the doorknob Drue turned to him again. Her clear gray eyes had a thoughtful, queerly measuring look. She said very quietly, "You are his father. I suppose you love him. But I could kill you for what you've done to me."

With which unexpected remark she walked out of the room and closed the door behind her.

Well, I must say I was a little disconcerted. I turned to Conrad Brent who had got out a handkerchief and was touching his bluish lips with it. "I know that," I said abruptly. "I know that, too. She'd make anybody a good wife."

"And a charming daughter-in-law," grimaced Conrad Brent, "threatening to murder me."

"She didn't mean that; you know it. She..."

He interrupted me. "My dear Nurse. I have no doubt she would make an admirable wife for, as you aptly put it, anybody. But not for me. I have a feeling that she is at the coat of arms and said in a different voice—"But not for my son. That's all, Nurse." Without giving me another chance to speak he went to the door and opened it for me, and I was obliged to precede him into the hall.

The aspect of the great, solemn hall had changed. A fire had been lighted and there was a little group of people having tea there, with fire and candles drawn up near the background. Alexia, sitting behind a lace-draped table, was pouring from an old silver service that was polished till it looked as soft as satin.

Conrad Brent asked me to have tea with them. The fact itself astonished me so I looked at him incredulously. It was as if the opening of the library door had been the ringing of a curtain and Conrad Brent had a scene to play. He was a different man—poised, urbane, gracious in a lordly way.

Well, naturally, I refused. I'd been too long away from my patient as it was. But he insisted upon introducing me to Maud Chivery, who nodded briefly, and to Nicky Senour whom I had already encountered and who remembered it for he was barely child, and to another young man, tall and blond and nice-looking who arose at once from the bench before the fireplace and bowed, and answered to the name of Peter Huber. This then was Craig's friend and the man who had helped Nicky and the butler carry him to his room after the shooting.

Maud Chivery stirred her tea with a shriveled, brown little hand and said in a soft-spoken voice, "I'll be glad to stay with you tonight, Nurse. When the other nurse leaves."

Alexia's beautiful, pointed face turned seeking toward her husband. Conrad didn't look at her. "The other nurse will stay until morning," he said.

Today's Horoscope
Your home is your castle and there are but few things outside of it that interest you. You are intellectual, conservative, artistic, enjoy reading and have considerable literary ability. You have a magnetic personality, enjoy the admiration of your friends and have no real enemies. Business and professional affairs are highly propitious, especially as appertaining to the sea, liquids, mines and/or old people. Some disappointment in love or domestic affairs is evidenced. The child born today will be successful and popular, very high-spirited, knowing no fear, but somewhat impulsive in speech and actions.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

THE ODDS ARE TERRIFIC

WHEN YOU double a less-than-game contract which, however, is high enough to become a game contract by virtue of your double, you are laying terrific odds. The size of your own score, in case you beat it a trick or two, is increased only a moderate amount, whereas the size of the declarer's amount is tremendously raised if he makes the contract. At such a time, you should be almost as certain as death and taxes that you will beat the contract, or else you should forget about doubling.

If that contract could have been set one trick, the not doubled score would have been 50 points, the doubled score 100, only 50 more. Compare that with what South stood to gain if he made it—a game worth at least 300 points, plus the doubled value of the tricks worth 120 points, plus 50 for making the doubled contract, or 470 all told. Add to that the value of a doubled extra trick if South managed to gain one, and high enough to become a game contract by virtue of your double, or 570 all told.

That is exactly what happened. South made an extra trick and so scored the equivalent of 570 points, a gain of 490 over the 80 which would have been made by the 3-Clubs not doubled if an over-trick resulted. So East had given odds of 490 to 50, or nearly 10 to 1, as it turned out.

South lost only three tricks after the spade 10 was led. One was the over-ruff of a diamond trick, the club K overtaking the 10. One went to the heart A and one to a diamond after the dummy was out of clubs.

Of course East's double would have been a bad one, even if the odds had been an even money bet.

Rev. John Abernethy Family Night Speaker

Differences of North, South
Discussed

The Rev. John Abernethy, of the Presbyterian church of Washington C. H., was guest speaker Wednesday at the October Family Night dinner meeting of the local church. The Rev. Mr. Abernethy, who is a native of North Carolina, and lived throughout his youth in the Southern States, was heard in an informal, humorous talk on the subject, "A Southerner Comes Up North." He discussed basic differences in the people of the North and South, due to environment, and told many droll incidents that gave point to his remarks.

He, together with the Rev. Carl Kennedy of the Circleville church, had been connected with the Summer camp project at Camp Wildwood, and at the close of his talk, showed interesting color slides of camp activities.

A large group attended the session and enjoyed the excellent buffet, cooperative dinner that preceded the program.

Immediately following the dinner hour, Robert Sprouse and Dale DeLong played two selections, "Beautiful Dreamer" and "Just a Song at Twilight" on cornet and trombone, respectively, with Ann Snider as piano accompanist.

Group B of the Woman's association of the church was in charge of arrangements for the dinner.

Relieve that Tormenting PIN-WORM ITCH

Too Embarrassing to Talk About!

It is no longer necessary to put up with the trouble caused by Pin-Worms. Don't let your child or yourself suffer that tormenting, embarrassing rectal itching, or take chances with the internal danger.

Medical science has now discovered a new and highly effective way to deal with this stubborn and troublesome infection. This important scientific discovery is a remarkable drug known as gentian violet. It is the vital element in P-W, the new Pin-Worm treatment developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicines. P-W tablets are small and easy to take, and they act in a special way to destroy the ugly creatures.

Watch for the warning signs: Itching nose and anal, uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, uneven appetite. Remember that now there is a treatment that works on Pin-Worms as no old-fashioned "worm spray" or "worm candy" could. So if you even suspect Pin-Worms, get a box of P-W right away, and follow the directions carefully. P-W means Pin-Worm relief!

30 TIGERS GO TO GREENFIELD FOR BIG GAME

Circleville 11 Seeking Win
No. 6 Against Tough
McClain Squad

Thirty boys were to leave Circleville high school at 5:15 p. m. Thursday with determination to score football victory No. 6 of the season written all over their faces.

Coach Roy Black said that apparently all the members of his squad were in good shape for the contest. No injuries have cropped up during the week and everybody came through the game with Wilmington last week in good shape.

The Tigers realize they will meet their stiffest test of the season Thursday night but they are going to try their best to cop the game and probably the South Central Ohio league title along with it. Only Washington C. H. will remain in the path of the Tigers for the loop championship if they successfully pass Thursday night's test.

Coach Black said his lineup for the game against the unbeaten Greenfield Tigers will be about the same as last week: Dade and Gillis at ends, Lovenshimer and Connally, tackles; Wells and Richardson, guards; Coffland, center; Simk, Heath, Hill, Hennis or Wimmer in the backfield.

PURDUE TO LOSE

FAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 26—Seven V-12 members of Purdue's football squad, including four veterans, will be lost to the team after Saturday's game at Michigan due to Navy transfer orders.

The vets are Frank Bauman, outstanding end and acting captain; Chalmers Elliott, left halfback; Stanley Dubicki, place kicking specialist, and Walter Porombe, center.

TOUR IS CANCELLED

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26—Without explanation, the tour of Pittsburgh district war plants which had been scheduled for world's heavyweight champion Staff Sgt. Joe Louis, today had been cancelled. Louis, it was announced, has been ordered to report to New York.

USES WITCH'S BROOMS

Jimmy Durante, expert adviser to Washington bigwigs, has solved the domestic help situation. He says he'll clean up on a plan which makes use of the brooms that witches ride on. He and his partner in fun, Gary Moore, tell all about it in a pre-Halloween broadcast on Friday, Songstress Georgia Gibbs and Roy Bargy's orchestra provide the musical highlights.

INGENUE OF YEAR GUEST

The young Broadway actress, Toni Gilman, now appearing in "Men to the Sea" including Michael Alexander, Randolph Echols and Maurice Ellis. This is the first time that "Grand Central Station," which recruits its talent exclusively from current Broadway dramas, has signed a cast composed almost entirely of the leads in one play.

LOUISE RAINER STARRED

Squeaking doors will swing wide to release assorted ghosts, goblins, and ghouls--and among them the exotic actress, Louise Rainer--in her first starring role on "Inner Sanctum Mysteries" Saturday, Miss Rainer's spine-tingling script is titled "A Dead Woman's Tale." Filled with all the horrors that a Nazi Concentration Camp can bring to a sensitive mind, Miss Rainer will portray the soul of a dead woman fighting for everything she held dear in life--continuing her beyond-the-grave fight with the most vicious forces ever unleashed on earth.

MASSEY IS GUEST

Raymond Massey, one of the foremost actors of stage and screen, brings his dynamic personality to the Barry Wood-Patsy Kelly Show Saturday. Massey is returning to Broadway after completing his latest Hollywood assignment in the film, "God is My Co-Pilot."

RADIO NEWS NOTES

That common critics' complaint against young singers--"Lovely voice but no musicianship"--will never be made about Victoria Louise Kerner, 24-year-old contralto of Cleveland, Ohio, who has been chosen from 37 auditionists to be guest soloist with Frederick Dvornich and orchestra on "Steel Horizons," Sunday. For before Victoria Louise discovered three years ago that she had a voice, she was a brilliant violinist whose sound musicianship had won her the distinction of being concertmistress of the St. Louis Philharmonic Orchestra.

Van Johnson, this season's newest movie rave, pays a visit to Burns and Allen, and gets the critical appraisal of Grace while George Burns sputters helplessly, Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Phil Baker, star of "Take It Or Leave It," and Milton Berle, star of "Let Yourself Go," will be on hand to keep things moving when the giant Sixth War Loan rally gets under way at Madison Square Garden Monday night, Nov. 20. Admission will be by war bond purchases to total one hundred million dollars and four regular network radio programs will be aired during the show, including the popular "Blind Date" program which is regularly heard Mondays.

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, Frankie Carle, Bob Strong and Ella Mae Morse are among the musical stars slated for early dates on "For the Record," Army Service Forces series which records its guests' performances for shipment to service men overseas as V-Discs.

Served As Missionary

Rev. Freyberg went to New Guinea in August, 1939, after serving Trinity Lutheran church at Marysville, Ohio, for two years as associate pastor and principal of the Christian day school. In New Guinea he served at the mission in the Madang district of the mandated territory of New Guinea, an area recently freed from the Japanese by Allied troops.

He was the missionary in charge of the area known as the Rai Coast, his station being at Biliu on Cape Iris, a small promontory on the northern coast, about 60 miles east of Madang. First Japanese bombings of the New Guinea mainland took place Jan. 21, 1942. On March 8, 1942 the Japs occupied Lae and Salamaua, about 100 miles southeast of Biliu, but there was no attempt to occupy the Madang district and Rev. Freyberg carried on his missionary work for 10 more months before he was forced to leave.

Japanese Arrive

Dec. 18, 1942, a Japanese convoy arrived at Madang and troops occupied the town and on January 14, 1943 an Australian officer ordered evacuation of the remaining civilians in the territory. The Rev. Mr. Freyberg left the Rai coast the latter part of January and arrived in the United States on May 4, 1943, after a long journey by various modes of travel. The first leg of the journey which brought the party out of the zone of actual enemy occupation was a four weeks' trek on foot over the Finisterre range by a pass of 9800 feet altitude, across the Markham valley, and up the Watut valley to Wau, an Allied advance base. During this time he had two narrow escapes from capture. From Wau Rev. Freyberg and his party were flown to Port Moresby and from Australia he came by boat.

He will relate some of his experiences in New Guinea in his address here.

But there has been a complete absence of such pressure, either regarding the making of statements which might have a political effect, or the shaping of his military strategy. In other words, he has been permitted to run the Western European war both in name and in fact.

A PATRIOT'S ESTATE
It escaped general attention, but after a great U. S. general was killed, the other day, his will was probated and he left an estate of less than $2,500. He was Lt. General Lesley McNair, killed in France. His son also was killed in action.

General McNair was one of the geniuses of the U. S. Army. He was responsible for the organization and training of the ground troops now doing such a magnificent job in France. Yet, under the system prevailing in the U. S. Army and Navy he was paid only a meagre salary, scarcely enough to live on. It made it impossible for him to save anything.

MRS. QUEZON HAS MONEY TROUBLES

It isn't being advertised, but Mrs. Quezon, wife of the late President of the Philippines, is leaving Washington for California in order to find a place where she can live cheaper. Meanwhile, she has had a slight tiff with new President Osmena, who replaced her husband. The tiff was over the question of a pension.

President Osmena offered Mrs. Quezon a pension of $1,000 a month, but pointed out that this subject to approval by the Philippine Congress. If they did not vote it later, he said, it might be necessary for Mrs. Quezon to refund the money. However, Osmena promised to do his best to get the pension voted.

Mrs. Quezon, however, refused. She said she could not afford to risk going into debt to the Philippine government and having to pay the money back. So she has given up the ornate suite at the Shoreham hotel, which she and her husband occupied as a second White House, and is leaving for California.

NOTE—President, Osmena meanwhile, left to join General MacArthur in a triumphal entry into the Philippines.
